Introductory

In submitting Volume VII of the New Castle, Ind., City Directory and nine rural routes radiating therefrom, it is gratifying to note the progress that is being made in industries and growth of population.

A great factor in the upbuilding of any city is its civic pride; the fact that our citizens stand as a unit on everything that affects the prosperity of our city is worthy of commendation.

The City Directory is one of the foremost enterprises of any city; it is generally referred to by the press of the whole country as a semi-public institution of great value.

The Directory is more than a mere list of names of residents, giving their various occupations and addresses, it is an infallible guide to our city, for our people and for the stranger within our gates. It not only deals with our people, but with our government, our institutions and various other organizations. It is a recognized standard work of reference and becomes the most reliable history of our city and its citizens. As there is no other publication in the world which gives the information as contained in the City Directory, there is probably no other publication in which all the people are so vitally interested.

To gather the data and compile a volume of this character is no easy task. It requires time, a well defined system, acquired only by experience, the patience of Job, and incurs no little expense. Few people have any idea of the work it means and the tenacity it takes to publish a reliable directory.

In preparing this book the publishers have spared neither time nor expense, and if errors occur or a name is omitted which should appear in the work, it is generally the fault of the public and not of the publisher, as every house is visited and it is not the publisher's or canvasser's fault if some one fails to give all the information or gives it incorrectly. The intentions of the reliable publishers are always for improvement, and you can always count on getting as accurate a directory as circumstances will permit. No directory is perfect.

It must be borne in mind that many changes of location, transfers of real estate and exchanges of business or employment, or places of employment, are constantly occurring and that many persons whose names, numbers, occupations and places of business are correctly given in the Directory may change their places of residence or business in a short time; but the Directory will give the clue by which they can be found.

In conclusion, we desire to thank our patrons for their support and to extend our thanks to the public in general for the courteous way in which nearly everyone supplied our canvassers with the desired data.

Yours truly,
DALE PRINTING CO.

City of New Castle

New Castle, Indiana, or "The Rose City," which name it acquired because of the many beautiful roses grown here, is an industrial city of fifteen thousand people, situated in the heart of Indiana's most productive corn belt, forty-five miles east of Indianapolis, the center of the country's population.

As every city has its mark of distinction, so New Castle boasts a population one hundred per cent. American, who have surrounded themselves with beautiful homes, magnificent churches, and a public school system second to none.

To her churches New Castle looks for moral, intellectual and social leadership. Lyceums, entertainments and the promotion of inter-church athletic relationships, both in baseball and basketball mark constructive church efforts.

In addition to inter-church athletics, New Castle has seen fit to provide recreational facilities for her citizens. In this capacity a virile Y. M. C. A. provides a gymnasium and athletic field with two baseball diamonds and several tennis courts, while the Maxwell Motor Corporation provides an athletic field which is used by the community. Three movies and one playhouse provide indoor amusements.

Memorial Park, consisting of one hundred acres, located about a mile from the heart of New Castle, is an ideal spot for a park. Its hillsides and valleys, thickly wooded, and its many springs, make it what one dreams of for an afternoon's outing or a picnic. When completed, it will have beautiful drives, an athletic field, an artificial lake, and a Zoo.

Also the Westwood Country Club, two and one-half miles west of the city, is one of the beauty spots of this section, occupying a 40-acre rolling plot, with an excellent nine-hole golf course, tennis courts, and a modern club house, where the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs have their luncheons and evening entertainments, and where the greater number of social functions are held.

Socially, New Castle's citizens are not lacking, for with the two business men's clubs, Rotary and Kiwanis, besides active fraternal orders and Ladies' Auxiliaries, in addition to church activities and women's clubs, takes care of this very necessary side of life.

Industrially, New Castle has developed greatly in the past decade, until her factories give employment to more than five thousand workers. Four banks, aggregating a total of $4,189,699.89 assets, two Building and Loan Associations, and three Loan Associations, are indicative of the wealth of the community.

The commerce of New Castle finds ample outlet and inlet over the Pennsylvania, Big Four, L. E. & W. Railroads, and two traction lines, which are aided by an excellent system of graveled highways throughout the County and State. There is much co-operative effort among New Castle retailers through the Chamber of Commerce, which is not only building a community spirit and aiding local industries and retailers, but is actively working to bring more industries to New Castle.

One Hundred Years in Henry County

(By Clarence H. Smith, Curator of the Henry County Historical Society.)

An act was passed by the Indiana Legislature in February, 1821, creating the present county of Henry. The act was not signed by the Governor, Jonathan Jennings, until December 31, 1821, when he signed bills creating Rush, Marion, Decatur, and several other counties out of the "New Purchase." The act creating Henry County was not to take effect till June 1, 1822. By the same act a Board of Commissioners was created to locate the seat of justice for the new county. The members of the Board were Lawrence Brannon and John Bell of Wayne County, John Sample of Fayette, Richard Blem of Jackson, and J. W. Scott of Union. These Commissioners met the first Monday in July, 1822, and selected a site near the geographic center of the county. About one hundred acres of land had been donated for the location of the county-seat on this site by Absalom Harvey, Allen Shepherd, A. Lewis, John Brumfield and Rue & Holman of Wayne County. These last might be called "promoters" or speculators, for they laid out the first addition to the new village, as they also did to several other of the new county-seats.

Ezekial Leavell was the first county agent and is said to have been instrumental in the naming of the county-seat New Castle for his home town in Henry County, Kentucky. He started the sale of lots in July, 1822. He later served as sheriff.

Daniel and Asa Heaton were trading with the Indians in the county as early as 1818, near the present site of Raysville. The first permanent settlers came to the county in 1819; among them were Asahel Woodward, Charles Jamison, Allen Shepherd, the Harveys, the Shannons, and George Hobson.

The first entry of land was by David Butler, August 8, 1821, within the present limits of Dudley Township. Within the next three weeks about eighty-five other parties bought land within the range of Wayne, Henry, Liberty, Dudley, Franklin, Greensboro, and Spiceland Townships.

The first Sheriff of the county was Jesse H. Healey, who was appointed January 1, 1822. In 1824 he walked to Corydon, the State Capital, with the county's tax, $112.00.

The first County Commissioners were Allen Shepherd, Samuel Goble, and Elisha Shortridge. They met at the Joseph Hobson farm, south of New Castle, till in May, 1823, they began meeting at the house of Charles Jamison, the first tavern keeper in New Castle. His tavern stood just west of the present Elks Lodge. The following year they met at the tavern of John Smith, across the street from Jamison.

The plat of the county-seat was recorded April 8, 1823. On the same date West Liberty, three-quarters of a mile southwest of Knightstown, was platted. The running of the National Road through Knightstown in 1827 killed West Liberty.

The first court-house, which was of logs, was ready for use in May, 1824. It was used till 1831.

The first grand jury met in September, 1822, at a log heap where the Presbyterian Church now stands.

Lot Bloomfield, James Noble, James Rariden and Abraham Elliott were admitted to practice law at the September term of court, 1822. Bloomfield was sworn in as the first Prosecuting Attorney. He lived at Centerville, Wayne County.

In 1823, Abraham Elliott, who had moved two miles south of town, opened the first law office in the town.

In the fall of 1823 a fourteen-foot jail was built of ten-inch square logs. By 1830 it had become too small, and a second one of logs was built. In 1835 a brick one was built. All three of these stood on the present public square.

Minor Fox was overseer of the stray pen, or pound, that occupied the southwest corner of the public square.

William McKimmey was the first County Surveyor, appointed by Governor Jennings, May 9, 1822.

William McDowell, "Uncle Billy Mack," was first bailiff of the court and served as such for over fifty years. He was also county coroner for more than thirty years.

The first State Senator, representing the county, was James Gregory of Shelby County.

The first County Clerk was Rene Julian. He died of milk sickness in 1828, and was buried in the Hobson cemetery, where the Wesleyan Methodist Church now is located. He was an uncle of the Hon. George W. Julian.

William Shannon served as first County Treasurer, from 1822 to 1824. Three brothers held the Treasurer's office at various times. They were John W., Robert M. and Henry Clay Grubbs. The last died in office.

James A. McMeans served as County Recorder longer than any other incumbent, from 1841 to 1859.

The office of County Auditor was not created till 1840. It was held the first ten years by James Iliff.

The Friends and the Baptists both lay claim to the honor of having erected the first church in the county. These were in Dudley Township in 1823. The Friends still have a flourishing meeting there, known as Hopewell.

The first church organization in New Castle was the Methodist Episcopal, formed by Rev. James Havens, in a log house on the west side of North Main street, about a half block north of Vine street.

The first school in New Castle was taught by Richard Huff, near the southwest corner of what are now Church and Twelfth streets. The next year Abraham Elliott taught a school on the present Jordan lot at the corner of Eleventh street and Indiana avenue.

The first store in the village was a twelve by sixteen cabin, with earthen floor, kept by Isaac Bedsaul. It stood on the ground now occupied by Mrs. E. H. Bundy's residence.

The site of the old Shroyer corner, at Broad and Main streets, was first occupied by a merchant, William Silver. He sold out in 1830.

Thomas Ginn built the first brick house in the village before 1828. It stood where the Lynn drug store now is located.

The site of the present Bundy Hotel has been occupied by a hotel since the early days of the town. One of the proprietors in the forties was Dave Murphey, brother of the well-known merchants, Miles and Eli Murphey. For about twenty years the hotel was known as the Taylor House, because of its proprietor, John Taylor.
